

THE AMERICAN DOCUMENTARY SHOWCASE is traveling this film to dozens of countries overseas under a program from the US Department of State.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

July 10, 2010

Whiz Kids: Intel Science Talent Search Documentary

The new documentary film Whiz Kids follows three high school student-scientists as they attempt to get their projects accepted into the prestigious Intel Science Talent Search. Scientific American podcast host Steve Mirsky talks with the film's writer and editor, Jane Wagner, and with two of the stars of the documentary, Ana Cisneros and Hermain Khan. Plus, we'll test your knowledge about some recent science in the news. Web sites related to content of this podcast include www.nature.com/nature/podcast and <http://whizkidsmovie.com>